Simpli Namdhari's plans to expand its footprint in South India

The brand recently opened a flagship store in Hyderabad, and now plans to launch stores in Pune and Chennai as well.

In a city like Bengaluru, where there is a supermarket at every corner, it becomes challenging for brands to make a name for themselves in this crowded space. There are retail stores like Ratnadeep Supermarket, Nature's Basket, More Hypermarket, Nilgiris, Reliance

Fresh and CeeKay Supermarket. Then there is Simpli Namdhari's, the omnichannel retail brand owned by Namdhari's Group, which has been on an expansion journey in South India.

From fresh, pesticide-free fruits and organic vegetables, to groceries to fresh farm to fork concept, the first Namdhari's store was launched in Bengaluru in 2001. The first Simpli Namdhari's store was launched in 2019, and it now has 10 stores in the city.

The brand recently opened a flagship store in Hyderabad, and plans to launch three more stores in the city in the coming months. With this launch, the brand plans to bring the farm to fork concept to Hyderabad and provide people with an upgraded grocery shopping experience.

When Satguru Jagjit Singh, former chief of Namdhari (a Sikh sect), thought of starting an agribusiness and bought a 50-acre land to grow vegetables and fruits in Bidadi in the 1970s, he never imagined that his venture would one day become a household name in Bengaluru, spread across the country and also take to export. In 1982, he asked his nephew Satguru Uday Singh to take the reins of the operations, and under his guidance, the group formally began its professional journey.

Namdhari's Group, which has a presence across fresh fruits and vegetables, groceries, dairy, seeds, fine dining and cafes, has a cumulative turnover of ₹650 crore. The chain currently has 11 Simpli Namdhari's stores and 16 Namdhari's Fresh stores.
